

Andragogy

Principles of Adult Education

Self-directed learning

- Learner takes responsibility for their learning experience
- Self-evaluation of performance

Problem-centered learning

- Learning must have practical, real-world applications
- Learner draws upon vast and varied prior experiences

Intrinsically motivated

- Self-esteem, self-actualization, professional growth
- Learning path is informed by personal/professional goals

Pedagogy

GamBoodle

Principles of Child Education

Teacher-centered learning

- Learning path and content is determined by teacher
- Teacher evaluates performance

Content-centered learning

- Learning focuses on acquiring subject matter content
- Learner has insufficient experiences to draw from

Extrinsically motivated

- Grades, stickers, badges, teacher's/parents' praise
- Competition and advancing to the next grade