

How to Write Learning Objectives

Learning objectives are clear, concise, measurable statements of what students should be able to do upon completion of a course or module.

- Each course/module/week/unit should begin with clearly defined learning objectives.
- All graded assignments should be directly related to these learning objectives – i.e., no “busy work”.
- Learning objectives should skew towards the Create end of Bloom’s Taxonomy:

Examples:

“Upon completion of this module, you should be able to:”

MEMORIZE the three main parts of a persuasive essay.

DESCRIBE the three parts of a persuasive essay in your own words.
